Investigation of Morgan Will Remedy Lax Laws

To the mind of anyone who enjoys Dickens and who has followed in the U.S. Senate investigation of the House of Morgan, the devious and intricate ways in which Morgan and his partners have preyed upon the American public must come the glory of "Oliver Twist".

There is no literal parallel, of course. Dickens with purpose, drew many of his characters from the most degraded criminal elements in the London of his day. The hideous Fagin, receiver of stolen goods, with his band of pickpockets into whose company Oliver was thrown, was deliberately overdrawn to give emphasis to what Dickens was driving at.

Writing a preface to "Oliver Twist," in 1841, Dickens explained his efforts to arouse public consciousness to the bad thieves infesting society — "seductive fellows (available for the most part), faultless in dress, plump in pocket, bold in bearing . . . and fit companions for the bravest."

It appeared to me that to do this would be to attempt a something which was greatly needed and which would be a service to society."

So there came to life under the pen of a great reformer the disgusting Fagin, teaching Jack Dawkins, "Artful Dodger," and his band of snatches, the fine points of their "work" and sending them out into the highways and by-ways to ply it.

With these and other characters, pleasant, sordid, ludicrous or revolting, Dickens painted his picture of English society.

When he held his finished picture

Roosevelt, the most powerful man in the United States, speaking for the millions that gave him his power, declares that it must be finished!

This picture, too, is sinking deep. It is having a profound effect. There will be reform. Acting for the people, a man who came to America as a poor Italian immigrant boy is shaking the House of Morgan to its foundations.

3 Boys Killed on C.P. Track

The southbound C.P.R. mixed which passes through Lacombe about 7 a.m. daily, ran over and horribly mangled three young men, a few miles north of Red Deer, on Saturday morning last.

The victims: Edward Zimmer, 15, Henry Grellich, 16, and Arthur Milovanov, 19, all Regina residents.

Identification was made by Royal Canadian Mounted Police who discovered the youth's names in their travelling packs.

How the youthful transients failed to hear the train's approach is a mystery here. According to preliminary investigation they must have fallen asleep on the tracks, their heads resting on their travelling packs, which had been placed on the rails.

Apparently asleep near a sharp curve in the railway, the three youths met sudden death. The engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway freight train was unable to stop in time when the sleeping boys were sighted, and the whirling wheels tore through the bodies of the three victims.

According to Red Deer residents, the boys were seen fifteen minutes before the tragedy, walking up the tracks. They were also seen in the town Friday night. They met their deaths at 7:30 the next morning.

Information obtained by police revealed the parents of the victims are among the unemployed receiving aid in the Saskatchewan capital. It is thought the youths were walking to work Edmonton or some northern Alberta point, searching for employment to aid their families in Regina.

Zimmer, according to police records at 2108 Reynolds street, Regina. The addresses of the others were unknown but one travelling pack contained the name of Miss Lucy Enick, 2079 Winnipeg street, Regina. Believed a friend of one of the boys. A shift at 2108 Reynolds street, Regina.

Lacombe Women's Institute Holds Interesting Meeting

An address on "Vocational Training for Girls" by Miss Alice Sherer, Domestic Science Teacher, of Edmonton, was the principal feature of the monthly meeting of the W.I. held at the home of Mrs. R. Watson on Saturday last, and which was attended by thirty-four members and visitors.

When the subject of Household Science education for girls was first introduced into the city schools, great things were expected of it, said Miss Sherer. Girls, after taking a year or two of this work, spending from two to three hours per week, were expected to be turned out expert cooks and dressmakers.

Such a course could not be performed as the course was not intended as an apprenticeship, time, equipment and supplies not allowing for this. Consequently many were disappointed.

A new attitude is gradually being adopted by the public as parents are realizing that this work is not aiming to develop great skill in one or two processes, but by creating an interest in the many home problems and activities.

The sewing, laundry and cooking, being entirely practical, require a special room and equipment and this is where the additional expense comes in. Sewing and laundry equipment can be purchased at a fairly low cost and in town schools, contemplating such a course, this part of the practical work would have to be emphasized, since cooking requires more extensive equipment and supplies.

The principles of nutrition must be taught to our school girls if we are to have intelligent housewives. In the choice of food for themselves and for others, when they are grown. By allowing them to handle food and prepare dishes, these principles can be much more thoroughly instilled into their minds than by discussion alone.

It is really alarming to hear figures of malnutrition among the American and Canadian children where there is little excuse for it. This is due not to poverty in most cases, but to ignorance on the subject. It seems difficult to train mothers; they are harder to reach, and some are too stubborn to accept facts or to realize their importance, so it is necessary to start health training at an early age on the subject.

A simple course on Home Decoration will relate the principles of Art to home surroundings. It will encourage girls to help improve and to appreciate their homes. Color scheme, arrangement of furniture, choosing, framing and hanging of pictures can be discussed and illustrated and some simple decorative household articles made.

In giving the work usually set quite a lot accomplished for the time spent. Girls are taught the first principles: stitches, hems, bias, etc., and usually complete several articles for personal and household use, involving both hand and machine work. Some girls are apt to be impatient during the first part of the course, but as they progress and see the results of their work, they become more interested and more willing to learn.

Alberta has been slower than the other Western provinces in introducing vocational work into her schools. British Columbia has for some time given this work in a number of towns and in the spring of 1933, Lethbridge, Grades 6 to 12 are taught and this surely enables girls to prepare for intelligent home making, which is ultimately the destiny of the large percentage of them.

Saskatchewan has placed this work on her course of studies to be carried all through public school, beginning in the lower grades by teaching health habits, etc., and in the higher grades introducing some practical work. Even rural and small town schools are required to give this work, although the practical part of it, which of course is the most valuable, must be very limited.

At the present time in Alberta, Edmonton and Calgary schools only, are giving the work and in these cities, it is confined chiefly to grades 7 and 8, except at the Technical High Schools. More interest is being taken in this, however, as it was under discussion at the Trustees' conference in the spring of 1933. Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and Banff having formerly equipped for the work in more prosperous times and been forced to drop it, are considering re-opening these departments even under present conditions. It would seem that these very conditions are making necessary a broader type of education and with that attitude growing in the public mind we hope to see this work gaining ground during the next few years.

To provide students with a foundation to work on and to develop later by themselves, something which they can carry from school and find useful all through life, is the ambition of this work.

Many articles of knitting, sewing and rug making, made by her students were displayed by Miss Sherer. Institute members were keenly interested and obtained a more comprehensive idea of the work being accomplished through this Science course. A vote of thanks was tendered Miss Sherer for her informative and interesting address.

Mrs. Newton read a further chapter on rigid economy, and Mrs. Sherer reported such information as had been obtainable on the proposed "Tired Mothers Holiday." The president, Mrs. Roberts announced that Mrs. H. Oldring, Constituency President, Mirror, would attend the July meeting, which is to be held at the home of Mrs. Hugh Reid.

Community singing and delicious refreshments closed an enjoyable and interesting meeting.

Another Big Fight Here

On Thursday, June 22nd, the Lacombe Hockey Arena will be the scene of another great Boxing Tournament. Fighters from widely-flung points in Alberta will assemble here to swap punches for the prize of the evening. Fighters ranging from Heavyweights down through the list to the Flyweights are on the card, and many outstanding exponents of the fight game will be here. Every fighter listed will be here. There will be no last minute substitutions as fighters in all the main draws have deposited cash guarantees (that they will be here. All the following fighters are on the bill: Pat O'Brien, Ernie Zurch, Gordon McGovern, Pete Holm, Benny Tate, Bad-Whiteside, Wells, Johnny Zurch, Art Langley, Buster Much, Bob Jones, George Davis, Young Frizell, Kid Slater.

The Main Bout will be between Pat O'Brien and Ernie Zurch. Pat O'Brien, is well known here, having fought in Lacombe on two previous cards, both with Boehke, he lost one bout and won one. On June 24th of May, O'Brien won on a knock-out from Benny Tate of Edmonton. Pat is in first class fighting condition and his chances to win the bout are promising. Zurch is an exceptionally good fighter and in his last fight with Boehke fought to a draw before a capacity crowd at Ponoka. This promises to be a real battle.

Pete Holm and Gordon McGovern are scheduled to fight an 8-round match, and this battle should be fast as these two fighters fought to a draw in a six round fight at Clive on May 24. Both boys are exceptionally fast and clever.

Benny Tate, who was knocked by Pat O'Brien at Clive has been drawn to fight Clive Simons, of Alix. This will be a real match.

Don Wells will battle with Johnny Zurch. These lightweight fights are fast and should give the fans thrills galore.

The Heavyweight match is between Art Langley, of Winnipeg and Buster Much, of Lacombe. It will be a treat for fight fans to watch these big boys go.

Every fighter on the card is a good one, so fans are assured of one of the best fight programs ever held here.

JUDGE STUBBS NOMINATED

Saskatoon, June 8.—Former Judge L. S. G. Stubbs, removed recently from the Manitoba judiciary by order-in-council following removal by the federal cabinet of the report of Commissioner Ford, of Calgary, in to the judge's conduct while on the bench, today was nominated to contest the Mackenzie constituency in Saskatchewan in the interests of the new Canadian Commonwealth Federation party.

Mr. Stubbs will thus have the honor of being the first candidate to carry the colors of the new political party headed by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor M.P., of Winnipeg, into the active political arena.

Mr. Stubbs won on the first ballot receiving 92 votes out of 131 cast. Three others contested the nomination.

A WARNING TO "NITWITS"

Reports from owners of Cottages at Gull Lake, report that a bunch of youths are creating much damage to their property, overturning out-houses, and other movable buildings. The police have been notified and are on the lookout for them.

This is probably the same bunch of "nitwits" who are shooting holes in the road signs along the highway. A reward will be paid for the names of those who are destroying Government property.

Severe hail storms visited many points in the district during the past week, but crops were not far enough advanced to suffer damage.

J. E. Fraser, Secretary-Treasurer of the City of Wetaskiwin, spent the week-end with his family at Gull Lake.

Haskell saw that his own real difficulty lay in overcoming Williamson's earlier prejudice and winning his personal liking. That called for shrewd psychology, but on that point he knew he could make Alan Baker look like a stammering farm boy.

The next evening, when Williamson arrived, Haskell first of all took him on an inspection tour of the post. Finished with that, they stopped and talked together on the slope, a little distance from the barracks. A respectful distance behind them Corporal Whipple waited, note paper in hand, ready to scrawl and salute if they glanced his way or asked for any figures.

Haskell was elated, he was secretly exultant, at his success so far in "working" his superior officer. Williamson was openly pleased with the inspection. Barracks, cabins, dog teams, canoes, guns—everything was in capital shape.

This auspicious beginning was all well enough, Haskell felt, but his trouble with Williamson was the all-crucial thing. It was going to make or break him. The whole outcome depended on Williamson; depended on whether the division commander would believe his story or Baker's. As yet he did not know what Williamson thought. The superintendent had heard a few of the bare facts on his way down the Mackenzie, but he had left headquarters before Baker, buying-out papers had reached there for his signature.

Haskell decided that the old officer had been favorably prepared for the story now; and he led into it gradually, shrewdly. Starting with the Midnight Sun robbery, he gave a detailed account of this last month, down to the hour when Pedneault stole the launch and joined Baker's venture.

"What hurts me the worst, sir," he added, with a commensurate show of real sorrow, "is the refusal of my men to co-operate with me or let me help them. Maybe I'm at fault; I don't know. But by way of example, sir, if Corporal Hardsack had told me about needing gas and oil, he could have had every drop at the post. But he wouldn't tell me; he let me mean, he took it. An Indian brought me word about him waiting at En Travers Lake for Baker. I figured Baker might need extra supplies or help, so with Whipple I went down there right away. We tried desperately to get in connection with Baker. Even shot signals for him to wait. But he scorned our offer.

"When I got back here," Haskell went on, "I planned to go up the Alouksa and take him supplies. I wanted to put everything I had at his disposal. He's the best man-hunter in the country, and I felt he would get those criminals if anybody could. I didn't give a damn if you'll pardon me, sir—about him being so hostile to me personally. All I cared about was to help him run down those bad guys. If they escape, it will be a blot on the splendid record here at Endurance. But, as I explained, Pedneault told me a lie about some trouble at an Indian camp, and ran off with the launch.

As he watched his superior's reactions, Haskell smiled to himself. His generous praise of an enemy was

HELP FOR TIRED WIVES

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

When you get tired during these hard times, there are the ones who must bear the burden of the home. When the husband comes home with less money than he needs, it is the wife who must struggle along and make the best of things.

If you are tired, worn out, nervous, or feel like you need a tonic, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. What you need is a tonic that will give you the strength to meet the strain of the home.

Out of every 100 women who report to us that they are benefited by this medicine, 85 say they feel better, 75 say they are stronger, and 65 say they are happier.

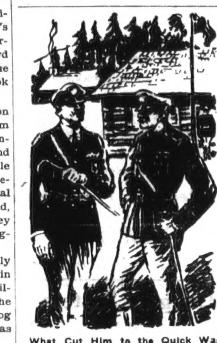

W. N. U. 1996

having its calculated effect. He was doubly damning Baker by praising him. He was gaining Williamson's sympathy, his approbation. He had beaten down the old officer's former prejudice against him and had instilled a subtle hostility against Baker and the two deserters.

For moments afterwards Williamson made no comment. Surprised and alarmed at discovering this had blood here at an important post, the old officer gazed silently down upon the purpling river.

His gray eyes, which through forty years of self-sacrificing service, had looked upon human weakness and hardships and heroisms, were filled with a profound sorrow. What cut him to the quick was this blow at his faith in Alan Baker. He had always liked Alan, had trusted him as he trusted few men; and had fought for his promotion. He, who had given forty years of his life to the service at a miserable salary; who with his brother officers of the old guard had unselfishly watched other men of their generation carve out fortunes in timber, ranches, and mines in the developing West—had he thought of Baker as one of them to carry on that tradition and spirit of loyalty to the Force.

Now, according to Inspector Haskell's account, Baker had quit because his commission had failed to come. At the back of a higher salary he had tossed aside loyalty and his invaluable work here in the North. He had made a miserable failure of a patrol, had lured the other men with insubordination, and then bought out.

What Cut Him to the Quick Was This Blow at His Faith in Alan Baker.

Stern and impartial, Williamson could not help feeling that Haskell, though a newcomer and not fully experienced yet, had been fair, and more than fair, in this trouble with Baker and these other men. Baker had certainly had a fearful moral lapse from the man he used to be. Without doubt his failure to get commission had set him brooding and had worked a pernicious harm on a once-superior officer.

As he looked thoughtfully at Haskell, Williamson considered it very creditable of him to praise a man who had done him so much injury. And he thought it showed exceptional stuff in the inspector to remain in service, to stick to his duty. That was work here in the North, when he had come into a large inheritance and might be leading a pleasant life in Ottawa. Playing no favorites whatsoever by trying to give every man his just dues, the old officer felt that his former uncharitable opinion of Haskell had been entirely wrong, as wrong and misplaced as his faith in Alan Baker.

Presently, in slow decisive tones, he said: "You did right to demote Baker after that patrol. It was foolhardy of him to tell his details that he was a deserter. He was a deserter. You were right when you paid the price of that mistake for the rest of his life. And about those other men, I think the rough sledding you've had with them is easily explained. Baker was in charge before you came, he was rather lax on discipline so long as the work got done. One of the things urged against him when he was up for commission was the fact that he was too familiar with his subordinates. When you came and insisted on stricter discipline, I presume they resented it. The fault is theirs, not yours. I'm backing you to the limit against them and against Baker, too, if he tries to stir up any further trouble."

Haskell drew a deep breath. His story had gone across handsomely. In half an hour he skilful talk he had accomplished more than Baker could match in a month of labor and heavy expense and danger.

For Alan and Featherfoot there at MacMillan's trading post after their discovery of the catastrophe, the waiting was the worst of it—though after hour of grim, self-enforced delay.

"We've got to let them get out of timber country into the open tundra," Alan spoke to Buzard, who was looking to his experience and leadership in this frigid crisis. "There we can be sure of sighting their canoes. They'll have no shelter there, when we drop down on them. We'll make ourselves give them a fifteen hour start on us."

It was his cold man-hunting wisdom that spoke. All being clamored to start instantly, flinging himself against those men and tearing Joyce away from them before twilight fell.

He forced himself to go up to the trading store and cook a meal, for they had eaten nothing since dawn. He remembered the little automatic Joyce always carried; remembered the hard bulge of it that time he lifted it. The gun was clear and unobscured by his spirit. Knowing her spirited pride, her passionate nature, he had fearfully imagined her choosing a proud escape from her horror.

When he and Buzard had forced themselves to eat supper and were putting the things in order again, as though for Joyce to come back and find, they heard a far-away drone miles down the Big Alouksa. A breeze whipped the faint sound away for several minutes. When they caught it again, it was clear and unmistakable. They once had heard that same low thrifty drone approaching across En Travers Lake to destroy their plane and stop their venture.

It's Haskell. He's coming to smash us. He didn't quit with that one attempt, I don't think—even if he knew that you and I are all that stands between Joyce and a horror—I don't think he'd hesitate a second. Buzard, you stay here. I'm going down to the landing. I don't want you to be involved in—I suppose it'll be a disaster.

He went out through the trading hall and down to the landing, and crouched there behind the machine gun. With his hand on the slide grip, training the weapon down river, he waited.

But, as he listened to the launch tearing wide open up the treacherous Alouksa, he grew convinced that Whipple never would or could drive it at so demoralizing a clip. Frank Pedneault was the man behind that wheel.

Lifting the binoculars, he focused them on the first bend below. When the launch came tearing into sight and thundered on up toward the post, he saw at a glance that it carried but one man—a man with his jammed low on his eyes and a dead pipe in his teeth.

Swinging the launch around in mid-stream like a toy, Pedneault gently nosed it in beside the plane. "Thank Lord, you're here, Alan. . . . Was afraid you'd be gone."

"Ped! What are you doing up here? You're on some patrol."

"Patrol?—h—!" Pedneault panted, breathless and excited. "I caught onto your idea, Elizabeth told me about it, too. She's changing for you to win out. Larry and I talked it over. 'By Lord, I'm going, Larry! I'm going to be in on that with Alan and Bill! So I eucured the launch away from Haskell, pitched off, and streaked for here. Brought you some extra gas if you need any.'"

Alan was staggered.

Geologists Find Old Cave

Able To Piece Together Story Of 2500 Years Ago

Geologists in a newly-found cave in a limestone quarry at Bishop Middleham, Durham, have pieced together the astonishing story of a family which perished there 400 years before Christ. There were eight people in the family, and they all used the cave as their home. The family's milk probably came from cattle and goats, the remains of which were found near the cave. There were badgers and wolves in profusion for the men to hunt with fine bone spears. The "kitchen" was at the back of the cave. Marks of smoke on the stone show where the fire had been. The family lived happily—but they died together in the cave which had been their home. The reason for the men to warn, and for 2500 years their bones lay under the stone. The cave was hidden until a modern quarryman fired a shot which revealed the entrance to it.

Would Take a Chance

Bobby returned from school with a perplexed brow. "What's the matter, sonny?" asked his father.

"I can't get a certain sum right," returned the boy. "I wish you'd help me with it, dad."

His father shook his head. "I'm afraid I can't, my boy," he said. "It wouldn't be right."

"I don't suppose it would," Bobby replied, "but you might have a try at it."

Could Not Forget Farm

When the country boy comes to the big city perhaps it would be just as well if he forgot all about the farm. But Stanley Janeksi, 35, said in effect he just couldn't forget, so he went to the stockyards in Chicago, where he found an amiable cow he was about to milk when seized by a watchman. "I meant no harm," he told a judge. "I just wanted to see if I could still milk my cow." For which the court fined him $2.

Women Ambassadors

First One Was Representative Of Soviet To Sweden

When Mrs. Ruth Bryner Owen is in Copenhagen as the first United States woman to attain ministerial rank in representing her country diplomatically, she will be just across the Baltic from the first woman ambassador, Madame Killantay.

Seven years later she was sent as ambassador to Mexico, but she remained only a few months and had a stormy time because of charges that the Soviet mission was engaged in political propaganda.

Since 1930 Madame Killantay has represented her government as ambassador to Stockholm, and the work of this 61-year-old widow has stamped her as an energetic diplomat. She has modeled commercial agreements which considerably increased Soviet-Swedish trade.

Madame Killantay is the daughter of a former Russian admiral and was educated in the fashionable Smolny Institute at Leningrad. She worked for years in Switzerland and other European countries together with Lenin and other enemies of the czaristic regime.

After the Kerenky revolution in 1917 she returned to Russia and became an ardent worker in the extreme movement.

She is the author of many books, among them "The Class War" and "Society and Maternity."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

DEFINITIONS

Hope is a door which, swinging wide. Lets glowing sunlight flood inside. The darkened chambers of a life. And shine away its fear and strife.

Love is a well of rosy hue Which changes every dreary view. From barren cliff to desert's face, Into a fair, enchanted place.

Peace is a clock which ticks away In changeless rhythm, hour and day; Untouched by tumult or defeat. It sounds, insistent, every sweet.

Faith is the key which sets ajar The gate to where all treasures are, And he who clasps it in his hand Holds all of good at his command.

Compassion is the little light Whose gleam goes dancing through the night. And only cold and hungry men Know how it quickens hope again.

On Economic Upgrade

Three of Canada's outstanding capitalists of industry, commerce and finance, visiting St. John, N.B., for the United Empire Loyalist celebration, declared Canada was on the economic upgrade and that recovery was being experienced "to a moderate degree." The commentators were John C. Newman, chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commission; James Playfair, of Midland, Ont.; and D. A. Campbell, Montreal, leading cattle exporter.

Find Grave Of Composer

Long sought by musicians and historians, the grave of Calixa Lavallée, composer of "O Canada," has been discovered in the Mount Benedict Cemetery, Boston. It was announced.

The body of the composer's remains transferred to his native land.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake up your Liver Life—No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must be in good working order. Without this, you are bound to feel tired, nervous, and generally unwell. The liver is the body's great waste eliminator. It filters out all the poisons and impurities from the blood. If it is not working properly, the poisons will build up in the system, and you will feel the effects.

Modeled Food in Wax

Artist Made Many Varieties For Window Advertising

Henry R. Linden, 70, who became well-to-do with his modelling business—making reproductions of foodstuffs for delicatessen windows, ended his life in his New York apartment at the height of success.

The aged modeller's works included more than 200 varieties of wax reproductions of food. He employed a staff of four.

Although he had no close friends, the theory has been advanced that the suicide was from despair that his real sculpture—of lifelike figures, was unappreciated.

He started his career as a maker of "synthetic" steaks to fool a friend. Soon he was doing it for local stores. His rummy cuts of meats have gone as far as Syria, where the American University at Beirut uses them for educational purposes.

In his work, he always brought realism to use for a model. When the replica had been made from wax and painted, the original was always cooked and eaten by the staff.

He made 48 Virginia smoked hams and as many loins of pork for the war department. He never found out just what the government did with them, he told acquaintances. The Dupont people bought a lot of his make believe asparagus, too.

He had a special "get acquainted" lot for $3.85—a porterhouse steak, a roast of beef, a pear, an apple, an orange and a peach.

Economic Analysis

Professor Stephen Leacock Addresses Political Science Association Annual Meeting

The secret of the future "lies in short hours, high wages, in the regulation of production of basic commodities, and under it and through it all the fundamental idea of every man for himself."

This was the assertion of Professor Stephen Leacock, McGill University, at the fifth annual meeting of the Canadian Political Science Association held at Ottawa.

Dealing with "the economic analysis of industrial depression," Dr. Leacock declared that "what we need is not a new game but a new set of rules—like widening the wicket in cricket and allowing the forward pass at football."

"We are now in the last depression, or else in the last depression but one, and that one final," declared Dr. Leacock. "An immediate but temporary remedy can be found by causing a rise in prices. This can be done by a changed standard of gold currency. To this can be added international agreements for trade, exchange and investment. But these are only temporary remedies. They are not permanent cures."

No hope can be found in the socialist state, Dr. Leacock said. "Socialism is social slavery. Communism is a penitentiary."

Had Remarkable Brain

Baby Gorilla's Thinking Apparatus Weighed Over a Pound

Discovery in a gorilla of a brain of higher type than ever before found in an animal—nearer the human brain—has been announced by the Smithsonian Institution.

It sheds new light on the evolution of the animal brain upward toward the human level, though giving no direct evidence of relationship of man and monkeys. The brain belonged to a little, four-year-old baby gorilla that died several months ago at the Washington Zoo. It was studied by Dr. C. J. Connelly of Catholic University of America.

Dr. Connelly found besides being unusually heavy for a baby gorilla's brain, that Okeko's thinking apparatus was especially rich in convolutions or "wrinkles" in the upper part of the brain which is the centre that in humans controls speech, thought and bodily movements.

Okeko's brain weighed 466.6 grams, a little over a pound. The lightest normal human brain weighs about 1,100 grams, which had been considered more than twice as heavy as the heaviest ape brain. If Okeko had lived and his brain had grown as fast as a human one, it might have reached a normal weight of more than 600 grams. Dr. Connelly explained, nearer the human weight than any ape brain before.

Farmers Cheques Exempt

Hon. E. C. Rhodes, Federal Minister of Finance, has made provision in legislation to exempt farmers' cheques, money orders and postal notes of less than $5 from the provision of the 3 cent stamp tax. This means that farmers' cheques for eggs and poultry, as well as for milk and cream, are now free of the stamp tax.

Golf courses in the United States occupy between 400,000 and 500,000 acres of land. Their value is said to be in excess of $850,000,000.

Employment in Scotland has been increased since January 1.

A single ton of wood pulp will make three square acres of paper.

Added Responsibility

Pat had been nearly every clock in the place, but had discarded all of them as not being good enough for the work. The weary shopman had exhausted his whole stock except a few cuckoo clocks, so he brought one forward as a last resource.

"I'll show you what they do," said the salesman, and he set the hands at twelve o'clock when the door flew open.

"Well, how do you like that?" asked the salesman. "That's a staggerer for you, isn't it?"

"Faith and I should think it is! It's trouble enough to remember to wind it, without having to feed it every day!"

Italy will speed up its train service.

Mass Production Not New

Archaeologist Finds Evidence Of Its Use By Ancients In Yucatan

This thing called mass production, blamed by many as a contributing factor to depression, it is not new. Even the ancients practised it, according to Dr. Frans Blom, archaeologist at Tulane University, who has just completed an expedition into the Yucatan.

There, he said, he discovered evidence of unit production and fabrication practised during the Maya civilization that flourished in Central America. Dr. Blom obtained measurements and data regarding an historic nursery at Uxmal, a replica of which will be exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair this summer.

"The stone used in the building," the professor reported, "was cut and shaped to standard size by the contractor who supplied and delivered it ready to be placed by the architects and builders. Just how these huge blocks were transported through the jungles is unknown, for the Mayans had no steel or iron tools and were not familiar with the principle of the wheel. Probably they were drawn on skids or sleds. All were hewn and shaped with stone instruments."

"Another 'factory' existed for the production of clay idols which evidently had a place in all Mayan homes."

England To Denmark

Special Train Carried Machinery From Newcastle To Copenhagen

A special train left Newcastle-upon-Tyne recently carrying valuable electrical machinery to Harwich for shipment to Copenhagen. The machinery weighed 304 tons, comprising six units supplied by Messrs. C. A. Parsons and Co., of Newcastle, for the H.C. Orsted Power Station of Copenhagen, and the special train itself another 232 tons.

The entire plant was successfully designed for a complete journey, land and sea, without removing the machinery from the railway wagons on which it was loaded at Newcastle.

From Zebrugge, bearing the national flags of all the countries, through which it passed, the train was hauled through Belgium, Germany and Denmark on the state railways to Fredericia, where a train ferry carried it to Middelvær. Thence it went by rail to Nyborg, train-ferryed again to Korsør, and finally reached Copenhagen.

Walk On Right Side Of Road

Danger Awaits the Careless Pedestrian

The habit of walking on the right hand side of the road and facing traffic in order to guarantee his own safety. This is a safe and sane habit, giving, as it does, additional security to the person on foot by letting him see in advance if the driver has failed to notice him.

Veracity Of Women

World's Greatest Prevaricators Said To Be Men

History's accounts of Captain John Smith being saved by Pocahontas and of Washington's love for veracity—the cherry-tree incident included—are attributed by Dr. A. S. Rosenbach, noted bibliophile, to the imagination of American historians.

"They are, in fact, two of the finest pieces of lying ever invented for the readers of American history," Dr. Rosenbach said in an address before the Pennsylvania Library Association.

Dr. Rosenbach's topic was the "Great Liar in History and Fiction." He said Casanova and Benvenuto Cellini should rank "among the greatest."

"You can count the really great liars on the fingers of one hand—and there's not one woman among them," he declared.

RED DEER HEALTH DISTRICT MEETING

The Board of Health of the Red Deer Full Time Health District, will hold a public meeting in the Assembly Hall of the High School at Red Deer on Thursday, June 22nd at 8 p.m.

A short time will be spent in discussion of the Health District work, after which a number of moving picture health films will be shown. These films will found most entertaining as well as instructive, and all residents of the District are cordially invited to attend. There will be no admission charge.

SAVE OUR TREES

Our attention has been called to the fact that youngsters are destroying a number of beautiful trees in various parts of town. Possibly the damage is done unwittingly, and it might be well for the teachers of our schools, and parents of young children, to impress upon the youthful minds the desirability of preserving instead of destroying one of the chief beauties of our town. It has taken a long time to grow the trees, and they should be preserved.

MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF CROWN NO. 399

Lacombe, Alta., June 15, 1938

RESOLUTION:

That this Council will approve of further appropriations for public works if the amount so spent is applied on arrears of Municipal Taxes and a like amount be paid in cash on School and Supplementary Revenue. Credit for work will be held in abeyance until ratepayers fulfill cash obligations.

DOWN GOES THE COST OF MOTORING

with the car that leadership built!

A GALLON of gasoline will take you farther in a Chevrolet than in any other full-size car. So will a quart of oil. As far as upkeep is concerned, no other low-priced car is so completely free from trouble, for such a long life, as a new Chevrolet Six. Because of this economy, many people are finding it less expensive to buy new Chevrolets—with Fisher No-Draft Ventilation and other ultra-modern features—than to pay for the upkeep of their old cars. Visit our showrooms and see the new addition to the Chevrolet line—the Standard Six—offered at the lowest price ever placed on a full-size, six-cylinder closed car!

SPRUCVILLE NEWS

Remember the dance to be held in the hall on Friday, June 16th. Good music and a good time for all.

Mr. W. Parker, Mr. Kasha and Mr. Gibson motored to Edmonton last Thursday. Mr. Parker, with some of the other councillors went to interview Mr. McPherson in regard to some roadwork.

Don't forget the afternoon meeting of the U.F.W.A. at the home of Mrs. I. Gottschlich next Wednesday. Come and meet your new director,

Mrs. Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. Orme and family, of Red Deer were visitors on Sunday with Mrs. W. P. Young.

Several men of the district motored to Alia on Wednesday to attend the annual meeting of the Alia Dairy Pool. Mr. Will Barker went as delegate.

We hope all the young people of the district will come to the hall on the 30th of June, when possibly someone taking active part in Junior work will be with us to try and form a Junior local here. At any rate a sociable evening will be held for all, so be sure and come. Miss Vena Kasha will also give her report on the Young People's Week at the University.

The general meeting of the Lest We Forget Club will be held at the home of Mrs. C. B. Halpin, Barnett Ave., on Wednesday, June 21st at 8 p.m. A good attendance is requested.

TOWN NEWS

Several notable fighters are working out at the local gym. Just drop around and watch them step.

Mr. Len Douglas and Miss Mary Friswell, two popular young people of the town, were married yesterday at the home of the bride's mother. Rev. R. B. Layton officiated.

Stolen from garage, a C.C.M. (Red Bird) bicycle. Anyone found in possession of this bicycle after this notice will be prosecuted. Reward will be paid for information leading to recovery. Don Moore.

Large crowds are attending the baseball games here at present. The game with Mirror on Tuesday night was exceptionally fast, and the Lacombe team showed great improvement. The score was 5-3 in Mirror's favor. Mirror has a fast lineup and the 2-run margin indicated the play. Lacombe plays a return match at Mirror on Sunday. The local boys are confident they will win this time.

There will be a fast game of baseball at the Government Park, Gull Lake on Sunday next, June 18. An All-Star team from Bentley will play Casey Jones' fast aggregation of ball-throwers. The park is now in wonderful shape, and is an ideal spot for a baseball game. Both teams are out to play ball and you should make an effort to be there. The game will be held in the afternoon.

Casey Jones told a reporter confidentially yesterday that his team would take the Bentley All-Stars into camp on Sunday at Gull Lake. The Bentley Captain said there would be nothing to it for their team to win with ease from Casey's team—so there you have it—don't miss the game.

THE SMARTEST TIRE the world has ever known

THE world of social distinction has given its discriminating patronage to the DUNLOP "FORT" Tire, as to no other.

Such distinguished endorsement from users in Great Britain—as in every country where it has been introduced—comes not without reason. It is the recognition of unequal quality and dependability.

For the "FORT" is the ultimate—the supreme—achievement in tire building. Built not to a price—but to an ideal. Naturally it costs more. But only in first cost. It is more than the world's smartest, most dependable tire. It is the most economical.

Now made in Canada in a limited number of sizes, the "FORT" is the leader of a complete line of DUNLOP Tires which offer you unsurpassed value in every price range.

Shall Broadcasting Become a Monopoly?

Canadian policy regarding radio broadcasting is a very live subject for discussion and naturally so because the radio has become such an intimate thing in the homes of Canada. It is to English radio that many people, and more especially those in rural parts or where a daily paper is not immediately available, now look to supply them with the correct time, weather forecasts, latest market prices, outstanding news events throughout the world, music for a little dance, religious services, and entertainment of all kinds. It is, therefore, only natural that policies and regulations governing radio broadcasting are of interest and concern to Canadians as individuals as well as to Canada as a nation.

Following investigation of the subject, a Royal Commission reported unanimously in favor of nationalization of broadcasting in Canada. Later a Parliamentary committee endorsed the policy, and finally, by a non-partisan vote in the House of Commons it was adopted. There was almost complete unity on the subject and Canadians everywhere were prepared to welcome and assist in the development of a great national undertaking and service. That was only a year ago, but that unity has disappeared and dissatisfaction is being voiced by the press, numerous organizations, and individuals everywhere. It is rare indeed to hear of any person who is satisfied. This general dissatisfaction has been aired in Parliament and Premier Bennett has promised further study of the whole subject by a special Parliamentary committee next session in an effort to bring back the old unity that prevailed a year ago.

What caused such a complete change in public opinion in a few months cannot be discussed in detail, but from the very beginning the Radio Commission appointed seems to have had a faculty of antagonizing people and of being too dictatorial. It first inaugurated a series of orchestral and symphony concerts. At first these were appreciated by many, but when no variety in programmes was forthcoming, nothing but symphonies and orchestras from Toronto and Montreal, people who desired something else began to criticize. Then followed a series of restrictive regulations and prohibitions imposed on all stations. But the final act of the Radio Commission which does not appear to have pleased anybody was the alteration of the wave lengths of stations throughout Canada in such a manner as to shut out many of the most popular programmes from United States stations in an apparent effort to compel Canadians to listen to the Canadian Commission's programmes whether they desired to do or not.

The Commission being a national body, and in an official sense Canada being a bi-lingual country, the Commission is perforce required to present programmes in French as well as in English. Thus many of its programmes are quite un-understandable to thousands of people in the Provinces other than Quebec, and while they do not object to programmes being broadcast for the French-speaking portion of the population, they do resent the action of the Commission in so changing wave lengths that they cannot listen to other programmes. Furthermore, many people feel that these French programmes might well be confined to Quebec and not carried from coast to coast.

Announcement is now made that the Radio Commission proposes to build two high power broadcasting stations, one in Saskatchewan and one in British Columbia, and that with the erection of these stations at a cost of approximately a quarter of a million dollars all present stations will be reduced to 100-watt power, thus reducing them to the status of stations with a range limited to a small local district. The result must be the closing of all such stations because they cannot command the commercial support necessary for their maintenance and operation.

In other words, it is not merely public control of radio broadcasting in Canada, which the vast majority of people favor, that is now contemplated, but the creation of a Government monopoly of broadcasting, which is quite a different thing, and a proposal which has aroused strong protest.

What is the intention back of this latest decision? It seems to be stated by W. A. Beynon, M.P. for Moose Jaw, who, in a letter to a radio association, says in part: "If the principle of national broadcasting is going to be carried to its logical conclusion, it means the ultimate wiping out of all small stations. This, it seems to me, is inevitable, and the whole question is—shall we continue the policy of national broadcasting or go back to the individual privately owned broadcasting stations? That national broadcasting will be more economical there can be no doubt. Whether it will, or will not suit the public better, or even whether it will or will not serve them better is another question."

Here is a question in regard to which the people most concerned—the listeners—in should make their views and wishes known to their local M.P. in order that he may present their views to the Parliamentary committee next session. And in the meantime, it would appear that the proper policy for the Radio Commission to pursue would be to stay their hand in the expenditure of large sums of public money in the erection of new broadcasting stations until that Parliamentary committee conducts its investigations and reports its findings.

Within His Rights

Man Considered Dead By Courts Objects To Paying Income Tax

How can a man who is officially dead be made to pay an income tax? That is what Jean Baptiste Arnaux, fifty-seven-year-old roadman of Mauve, France, may ask the courts. He served through the World War, but when he applied for papers to prove that he was an ex-service man, he was told that the records showed that he had died when he was only a few days old. He appealed, unsuccessfully, to the courts, and is now considering refusing to pay his tax on the ground that dead men cannot be taxed.

Seeking Lost Continent

British Scientists Are Preparing To Explore Unknown Regions

British scientists are to explore the bottom of the Indian Ocean, four miles below the surface, in a search for traces of the lost continent of "Lemuria."

An expedition under Captain J. M. MacKenzie, who captained the "Discovery" of Sir Douglas Mawson's last voyage in the Antarctic, will leave London in August to begin the search. They will be nine months at sea (between Africa and India) in a tiny research craft of only 105 tons. The craft is now being fitted at Alexandria with latest inventions for under-sea exploration.

Steel bottles, which close automatically at a certain depth, will be let down to take specimens of the sea life and record temperatures. Lead lines will be dropped four miles down to take samples of the sea floor.

In this way the expedition hopes to discover traces of the continent of "Lemuria," which is supposed to have stretched from Madagascar to Sumatra and India in pre-historic times. Another object is to discover whether there are mountain ranges and ridges under the sea such as the Meteor expedition found in the Atlantic. The scientific leader of the expedition will be Colonel Seymour Sewell, D.Sc., director of the zoological survey of India.

Weather Man Fickle

Has Always Staged Sudden Changes Old Diary Proves

Judging from a diary kept by Mrs. Reidel, wife of General von Reidel, commander of the German mercenary troops stationed at The River, Quebec, from 1778 to 1782, the weather man was just as fickle in her day as he is now. In fact a sudden change in temperature spoiled her chances of getting to Montreal for her spring outing.

Mrs. Reidel's diary, discovered by officials of the McCord Museum in cutting over material for an extensive exhibit illustrating Canadian history during the period of 1770-1782, reveals that it was evidently her custom as becoming a lady of rank and distinction to do her spring shopping in Montreal. In keeping with this custom she set out one spring for the metropolis by horse-drawn carriage, travelling on the ice of the St. Lawrence. At Sorel an overnight stop was made and during that time a rapid change in the weather took place. Imagine her disappointment when the good lady awoke next morning to see a boat sailing up the river where she had only the night before travelled on ice.

To Salvage Gold

Italian Vessel Engaged In Raising Treasure From Sunk Liner

The Italian salvage ship "Antiglio" has sailed for a final attempt to raise approximately $1,500,000 in gold still in the strong room of the sunken P. and O. liner "Egypt," lying 70 fathoms deep off Point de Raz. In four previous attempts of work the Italian divers recovered $2,500,000 of the total cargo of $5,000,000 in gold and silver which the liner carried from London on her last voyage, May 19, 1918. The "Egypt" sank in 20 minutes after being rammed by a fog by the French freighter "Seine." Of the 44 passengers and 291 crew, 96 lives were lost.

After finishing with the "Egypt," the "Antiglio" probably will be engaged by the Egyptian government to seek gold and other treasure from Napoleon's ships which were sunk by Lord Nelson off Aboukir Bay in 1798.

Child Prodigies Banned

From French Stage Any Under Thirteen Are Not Allowed To Appear

France has definitely banned child prodigies from the stage. Legally no one under thirteen is allowed to appear, but special licenses have been issued. The Cabinet has decided that no more of these will be given. Children working for the films are included, and many child stars are affected. The decision followed the receipt of reports by the Ministries of Health and Public Education that children on the stage are made to work long hours without sufficient time for study.

Rhubarb Was Once Medicine

Rhubarb pills and rhubarb sauce are now quite common every day. The rhubarb plant was used in pharmacy long before its value as a food became known. It grows wild on the banks of the Volga in Russia, and was used in the making of tarts in 1820 and soon became common in Canada and the United States. It was relished by the early settlers when fruit was scarce.

NOT A PAIN AT 78

She Feels Like 48

Aches and pains are not inevitable in old age. When they do come, there is always a cause for them—a cause that can be overcome. Here is a little lesson on growing old, by a woman of 78.

"For the last five years I have taken Kruschen-Salts and I tell you truthfully I could not live without them. I am 78 years old. I have not a pain in my body, and I feel as young as I did at 48. I give the credit to Kruschen-Salts. No one will believe my age."—(Mrs.) C. M.

Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they start the healthy Kruschen habit. Then, probably for the first time in their lives, they start getting rid every day of all waste matter from the system. And almost immediately they feel their youth has returned; they feel energetic and happy. In a word, they've got that famous "Kruschen Feeling."

Exhibits From Britain

Good Representation From United Kingdom For World's Grain Show

Leading representatives of the agricultural industry in the United Kingdom will represent the government at the world's grain conference, opening in Regina, Sask., July 24, while agricultural, milling and other interested organizations are considering the question of sending delegates. It is also probable that a small horticultural group will visit Canadian connection with the conference.

Announcement was made by the ministry of agriculture that the government of the United Kingdom will be represented by Sir Daniel Hall, director of the John Innes Horticultural Society, Sir John Hall, director of Rothamsted Experimental Station and of the Imperial Bureau of soil science and William Robb, director of research, Scottish Society for Research in plant breeding.

The Rothamsted station at Harpenden, Hertfordshire, is preparing an educational exhibit including sheaves of wheat from the 89th successive crop grown on the same field under varying conditions. Britain will be well represented in competitive classes and in exhibits of small farmsteads.

Scotland is sending samples of oats which already have won high awards in home competition. In addition there will be wheat and barley exhibits from various parts of England and varieties of flax as well as flax in the seed. Wheat and barley will be sent by northern Ireland.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

HODGE PODGE PUDDING

(Serves 6)

- 1 cup orange pulp, diced.
- 1 cup apples cut fine.
- 1/2 cup broken walnut meats.
- 1/2 cup seed raisins, chopped.
- 1/2 cup orange juice.
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 6 tablespoons bread crumbs.
- 1 teaspoon butter.

Mix all ingredients except butter. Put into buttered baking dish, top with bits of butter and bake covered in a moderate oven (350 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit) until apples are tender. If apples are very dry, increase the amount of orange juice slightly. This is a pudding boy like.

DERBYSHIRE SANDWICHES

Run through the meat grinder enough finely sliced boiled ham to make one cup of it when minced. Add one-half teaspoon mixed mustard, few drops tobacco sauce, one teaspoon sugar, salt and pepper to taste, and enough Chili sauce to make a smooth paste. Spread on this slices of buttered bread.

Densely Populated

Cochin, a state of British India, now has an average of 814 persons to the square mile, thus making it the most densely populated area in the world. The Canadian figure is less than three and on the Cochin basis there would be 3,936,220,000 people in this land.

DIRECTOR: "Say, you! D'you call this a love scene? For goodness sake try an' imagine it's yer husband!"
ACTRESS: "It is."

Many Students

Forty-Three Thousand and Forty-Three Students Enrolled In Universities

Students of university grade enrolled in the universities, colleges and professional schools in Canada as at June, 1932, numbered 43,143, an increase of 2,500 over the 1931 enrolment. The 1932 enrolment shows a total increase compared with the enrolment in 1922 of 55 per cent, and an increase of 320 per cent, compared with 1901. Some of the factors that have contributed to this increase are: the population of university age increased about 50 per cent; the proportion of women to men in regular university courses has greatly increased and there have been pronounced increases in the facilities at the disposal of teachers and others for obtaining a higher education by means of summer sessions, evening classes and other part-time instruction, including correspondence. The proportion of boys in Canada getting as far as university graduation is about 4.5 per cent; girls 1.5 per cent, or about 3 per cent of the population as a whole.

Among the universities in Canada the University of Toronto has the largest enrolment of full-time students of the regular session with 6,009; the University of Manitoba, in Winnipeg, is second with an enrolment of 5,646; McGill University, Montreal, is third with 2,442.

Corn Versus Wheat

Figures Show More People Make Money Out Of Former

What strikes one most forcibly in The Associated Press farm figures is the relative importance of the great staples. The population chiefly dependent on wheat is about 1,250,000; on cotton, 1,900,000; on dairy products, 2,000,000; on corn, 4,500,000; on hogs, 4,850,000; on tobacco, 400,000.

Why, then, does wheat make such a noise in the world? Why does the business health of the whole nation hang solely on wheat? One and a half times as many people make a living out of cotton as of wheat. Nearly twice as many people make a living out of dairy products. Nearly eight times as many people make a living out of corn, in propria persona or in the form of hogs.

A real American currency, immune against hostile foreign influences, would not be based on gold or silver, which other countries have, but on the maize plant which is almost our monopoly.—New York Times.

Quaint Royal Office Filled

Scotland's Royal Painter Holds Same Rank As English Post Laureate

Picturesque in the double sense is the office, "His Majesty's Painter and Limner in Scotland." This office has just been filled by Sir David Young Cameron, one of Great Britain's most noted painters whose works are to be found in almost every gallery of note throughout the world.

The position dates back to the times when Scottish monarchs delighted in having their portraits painted, and even today it is an office attached to the royal court in Scotland. Corresponding in rank to the post of Post Laureate or Master of the King's Music in England, the office is virtually honorary. The salary attached is only about $350 annually.

An interesting idea. Investigation has proven individuals with gray or dark brown eyes are more immune to dental decay than those with blue or light brown eyes. Dr. Harry S. Thomson, field secretary of the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council, told a combined luncheon of the Ontario Dental Association and Ontario Health Officers' Association at Toronto.

A Heavy Responsibility

Plan Long Flight

New York To Bagdad Is Aim Of British Flyers

Some time this summer James A. and Mrs. Amy Molison, famous British husband-and-wife aviators, will hop from Roosevelt Field, New York, on an attempt to set up a new long-distance record by flying non-stop to Bagdad or beyond.

If they make Bagdad they will have beaten by some 700 miles the record of 5,340 miles established in February of this year by the British airmen, Nicoletta and Gayford, when they flew from England to South Africa.

Roosevelt Field was chosen by the Molisons as the starting point for their first aerial adventure because it is the only suitable airport having a concrete runway.

Their machine, now in process of construction in England, will be shipped in parts to New York and will be re-assembled at Roosevelt Field. It is a twin-engined monoplane of the De Havilland "Dragon" type, and would normally accommodate six passengers, pilot and baggage.

Three vast cylindrical tanks, placed so close together that they resemble the boiler of a giant locomotive behind the pilot's seat, replace the passenger's seats.

Only one pilot's seat is provided in the forward cockpit, with just enough elbow room for the Molisons to change over the controls of the air. There is a hatchway only one foot in height to enable them to crawl from the cockpit, underneath the tanks, to a tiny cabin in the tail of the machine.

The gasoline capacity will enable the machine to fly up to 6,000 miles in average conditions. With a tailwind during parts of the journey the 8,000-mile limit should be exceeded.

Other details regarding the machine and its equipment are being kept secret, but it is not believed that the aeroplane will carry radio.

Records Carefully Kept

Plenty Of Documents About Hudson's Bay Company Trading Posts

"Never has the frontier life of any country been as carefully recorded and as thoroughly documented as the journals of the fur trade posts of the Hudson's Bay Company in Canada," said Douglas Mackay, speaking to the Kinmen's Club of Montreal.

"Under the terms of the original royal charter, London as the head office of the Hudson's Bay Company, remains the repository for all the company's archives, and the gathering of these records, the posts and the posts a few years ago resulted in an accumulation of nearly six tons of documents," Mr. Mackay declared. The work of organizing and cataloguing this material has been proceeding under the direction of the company's archivists.

At the present time, this vast quantity of historical documents, which is in reality the richest source of material of western and northern Canadian history, is in better shape for the use of accredited historians than ever before.

Only Four Survivors

Of Famous March Undertaken By Mounties In 1874

Back in 1874, the then recently organized Royal North West Mounted Police undertook the famous march from Dufferin, now Emerson, to Macleod.

As far as is known only 4 members of the original 300 constituting the troops engaged are alive today. They are Roy Macleod, J. B. Mitchell, Winnipeg, and A. H. Scouther of Hildesheim, Manitoba, both of whom came west with troop D.E. and F. from Toronto to Fargo on the old Northern Pacific and then to the prairie camp of troop A.B. and C. from Fort Garry to Emerson. Colonel James Walker, and ex-constable G. C. King, both of Calgary.

Produces "Weather" Cards

Coin-In-Slot Machine Gives Forecast For Day

By placing a small coin in a slot machine people in Frankfurt planning a garden party or a picnic will in future be able to learn early in the morning whether the day is likely to be wet or fine. The municipal meteorological department has decided as an experiment to install several of these weather forecast machines in the streets. Cards which are produced by the coins will state whether the day is to be hot or cold, wet or fine, and whether the visibility will be bad or good.

Modern Home In Sweden

Disabled Poor Will Have Every Care and Comfort

Sweden is completing construction of its new home for the disabled poor at Nynshamn, near Stockholm, and it is declared to be the most modern in Europe. Latest equipment for curing rheumatism, nerve diseases, asthma, and other afflictions has been installed by the State Pension Board. Five experienced physicians and a large staff of assistants and nurses will be in charge of the medical work. The new home has several hundred rooms and wards, laboratory, terraces and galleries for sunbaths and a well-equipped gymnasium. There is also a large assembly hall for lectures, stage performances and movies. Success at rehabilitating the disabled penniless has been encouraging in Sweden, as about 60 per cent of the patients treated have regained ability to earn their own living.

Earned Gratitude Of Indian Mohammedans

Lord Lothian Arranged Return Of Valued Robe To India

Lord Lothian, former Under Secretary of State for India, has earned the undying gratitude of numbers of Indian Mohammedans by arranging for the return to India of a holy robe on which is inscribed the whole of the Koran. The Koran is the highly revered Mohammedan Bible. The robe was taken away from India at the time of the mutiny of 1857. It has remained in England in the hands of a noble family. Through Lord Lothian's intervention the owner has made a gift of it to the Muslim University of Aligarh, where the robe has been placed in a prominent position in a showcase and is venerated by the faithful. Little is known about the history of the robe.

Sea Plane Goes Down in Lake

A large cabin seaplane, in charge of Pilot Vines, of Calgary, met with disaster in Gull Lake on Friday last. It appears that the plane was being taxied at a good speed through the water preparatory to taking off, when one of the large pontoons collapsed just off Walker's point. The flying boat took a header, and fortunately no one was injured. It is reported that the plane belongs to a lady in Calgary. At the time of writing it is still stranded in about eight feet of water and badly damaged.

AT THE AVOLON

"SIGN OF THE CROSS"
The first Cecil B. DeMille spectacle drama since the advent of sound, "The Sign of the Cross," opens at the Avolon tonight.
He made the greatest spectacle of silent pictures, the memorable "Ten Commandments" and entered the Hollywood lists anew determined to surpass even that achievement. When Mr. DeMille looked at the "rubies" of his new picture, he seemed content.

Freddie March, as the heroic prefect of old Rome, sacrificing wealth, position, even life for love of a Christian martyr-maid, is said to have the most virile role of his career. Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughton have the other principal roles.

The story was adapted to the screen from the famous play of Wilson Barrett. Its principals are supported by an ensemble of 7,500 extra players, the greatest number shown in any production since the days of the silent drama.

Show will start Thursday and Friday at 8:30. Feature at 8:40. Saturday 7:30 and 9:40.

Coming: Sylvia Sidney and Cary Grant in "Madame Butterfly," June 22, 23 and 24.
Geo. Arliss in "A King's Vacation," June 29, 30, July 1.

Mr. Spence Talks on Liquor

Mr. Ben Spence, temperance advocate, addressed a meeting in St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday evening. He denounced the beer parlors, and said they were worse than the old bars. He gave figures to prove that beer consumption has increased 75 per cent, and the consumption of hard liquor 80 per cent. We do not know where he gets his figures, but they are at variance with any figures sent out by the Government Control Board. As a matter of fact the consumption of beer has dropped nearly 50 per cent. in the past year. Beer warehouses have been closed; nearly every hotel in the Province is having a struggle to exist, and the brewing industry is carrying on with greatly reduced staffs. Mr. Spence thought it was very inconsistent of the government, which puts tea and books into schools, teaching the children the evil results of liquor consumption, to be in the liquor business at the same time.

If Mr. Spence could give reliable figures, on which percentages could be based, we think he would make a greater impression on his audiences, and would do his cause more good. He has evidently taken his figures from a pamphlet prepared by Mr. H. H. Hull.
